

Reading and listening resources

We have created a Padlet for you to access before, during and after the event. A Padlet is an online platform where users can share information and resources. Typically, it is used in learning and educational settings.

Feel free to browse this curated collection of reading, writing and listening materials, crowdsourced with practitioners and researchers contributing to With For About. There are also suggestions from the team at Heart of Glass. This is not intended as required reading but merely a place to share and draw on common resources of interest for readers, practitioners and contributors.
